Some of Our Troubles. The Governor of Virginia calls the attention of the Legislature to the embarrassment concerning the matter of paying full interest at the rate of six per cent, per annum upon General Assembly of Virginia. the bonds held by institutions of learning in the State, it being doubted whether the Auditor has authority to pay as much on bonds held by the MILLER Manual-Labor-School fund, and the Legislature is asked to decide what shall be paid upon those bonds.

This is one case of embarrassment in the present condition of our State finances. But amendment so as to prevent the Society from the troubles growing out of it are numerous, and the citizen may well consider whether, all things regarded, it would not be better for all if the State were paying legal interests upon her obligations. That would settle all questions and benefit the general credit by placing that of the State in the highest position. Now, every min suffers. twice, and referred to the Committee on Business is affected injuriously, enterprise is | Finance. depressed, capital is repelled, and there is no pursuit, no walk of life, that is not more or less distressed by the suspension of the credit of the State.

We see all this, everybody should see it. We know the condition of the State well- turns. no one better understands or more earnestly deplores the train of events which brought it about; but when we think what great benefits would flow to all the people of Virginia from the redemption of her plighted greater burthens may be borne by us all for such blessings. Not only hundreds, but thousands of troubles would be dissipated a once by paying. That would elevate Vitgiria higher than ever in the opinion of the civilized world, and shower blessings on her people.

A Discordant and Unhappy Nation, The papers every day contain reports of discord, and conflict, and depravity-party and political-and accounts of business irregularities and financial frowardness that are without precedent in the land; and men wonder why is this, and why is that, and what is the matter. Bad government, is the answer. Bud gov-eroment exaggerates every vice and pro- printed. duces every form of evil and suffering. The bad government of this country is made incomparably worse than any ever before known in the world, because it is chiefly occasioned by the execrable attempt of the basest party that ever existed to perpetuate county. its power by subordinating civilization to burbarism, by putting barbarians and knaves to rule over educated, refined, and civilized | King George. beings of the highest type of man on earth. This is the source of all our national woes. troubles, the distressing nature of which is Lynchburg, approved March 6, 1872. not fully appreciated. Thus the nation is b rought to a condition of unhappiness that the Superintendent of Public Printing that joyed thirty years ago may be likened to the difference between Paradise and Hell itself. | composition or press-work shall be made un-This is what the so-called Republican party has done for the nation: Instead of peace we have disorder, and discontent, and apprehension; crimination and recrimination; fending and proving; resentments, acrimonies, and all uncharitableness; out- funding of $40 erroneously assessed against rages and murmurings; tinancial and industrial disorganization; the impairing of civilization and virtue, and the rapid and steady juroads of vice, profligacy, and barbarism upon the body politic. These are the fruits of the diabolical combination of fanaticism and villainy under which this ill-fated country has been for years governed.

With this conspiracy against the national peace and dignity there can be no compromise. Nothing can save the land but its utter defeat and expulsion from all places of authority.

The Pacific Routes.

A telegram in our yesterday's paper announced that a train seventy miles west of Dubuque, Iowa, was snow-bound, having on board thirty passengers without food or fuel, and the thermometer ranging from 26 to 23 below zero! Such are the perils of travel across the plains. No wonder that the Central Pacific railway should have one urgent necessity of establishing a new asy-mileage paid to each circuit judge of the hundred and tity miles of snow-sheds for the protection of its trains from being swept still in the deep drifts. What perils to passengers are thus sought to be warded off; central route in winter are great, and the dangers are not easily exaggerated. Of course everybody understands that the Central Pacific was the creature of the war. In a time of peace it could hardly be possible that the central line should be built before that by the Southwest pass. The war built the central line, and the rancors of war controlled the subsidy to the northern or JAY Cook's line, which fell by the great natural obstacles which stood in its way after the Government had wasted millions on it.

The equable temperature, the even grades, the shortness of the Texas route, make it so incomparably preferable to even the central route that it may be reasonably doubted whether that would have ever been built had a good railway existed by the Texas for a location, &c., the place receiving the mended an amendment to another part of route. This has already been demonstrated; for a bill is now pending before the General Asmonths. There were a dozen or more places sembly to add to the expenses of the State by adding some four or five additional circuit-court judges to those already in office. An examination of the days of service of each of the circuit-court judges shows beyond all contradiction that they have enough > brought before them, whether of a civil or criminal character. It is argued that the members of the General Assembly are ineligible because of a proticle of the Constitution. That question was considered during the session of 1870, when Judges Keith, Kelly, and Fulton were electmore members of the General Assembly county-court judges.

If the present Legislature sees an inhibition in the article of the Constitution referred to it is not likely that the bill providing for an increase of judges will be seriously pushed. - Fredericksburg Herald. [Judges Keith, Kelly, Fulton, &c., were elected properly. The Constitution does not forbid a member of the Legislature to be elected to any office except one created by his vote, or whose emoluments were increased by bis vote.]

The members of the Legislature who wanted to have five new circuits created and then get themselves elected judges are sick. Section 8 of article 5 of the Constitution has, in the language of the immortal bard (or somebody else), settled their hash .- Richmond letter-Petersburg News.
